

THREE STEAMERS SUNK; DESTROYER BADLY DAMAGED

Lightning Encounters a Mine or is Hit by Torpedo—One of Crew is Dead While Fourteen Are Missing.

LONDON, July 2.—The admiralty announced Thursday night that the British destroyer Lightning encountered a mine or was torpedoed off the east coast of England Wednesday night and that one of her crew was killed, while 14 are missing. The vessel succeeded in reaching harbor safely. The Lightning is an old boat, dating from 1893. She has a displacement of 290 tons and carries one 12-pounder, five six-pounders and two 18-inch torpedo tubes.

The admiralty announcement says: "H. M. S. Lightning was damaged Wednesday night off the east coast by a mine or a torpedo explosion. She is now in harbor. One of her crew is reported dead and 14 missing."

Two British steamships and a Norwegian steamer were victims of German submarines during the last 24 hours. The British steamship Lomas, of 3,048 tons, bound from Argentina to Belfast, with a cargo of corn, was sunk by a German submarine off the Scilly islands Wednesday.

The submarine fired two shots at the steamer, the second killing Second Officer William Cunningham. The lifeboats were launched and the crew abandoned the ship, which subsequently was struck by a torpedo.

The Belgian trawler Gaby, which witnessed the attack, rescued the 25 surviving members of the crew.

The Lomas was operated by the Buenos Ayres Great Southern Railway company, Ltd.

The British sailing ship Thistle Bank, of 2,438 tons, from Bahia Blanca for Queenstown, was torpedoed off Fastnet. Part of the crew were landed at Baltimore, Ireland, Thursday.

The Italian ship Lardomeo was torpedoed off Castletown, Bearhaven, Ireland. The ship sank in two minutes. Nine of the crew were drowned and two others died of their injuries. Seven were saved.

A Reuter dispatch from Christiania reports the torpedoing of the Norwegian steamer Marna, from Mandal for Leith, loaded with mine timbers. The Marna was of 341 tons.

The Dutch steamer Nieuw Amsterdam, which was in collision with the Cardiff steamer Roath, sailed from Dover Thursday morning for Rotterdam with 400 passengers. The Nieuw Amsterdam sustained damage on her starboard side above the main deck.

SIX KILLED. MUSKOGEE, Okla., July 2.—Six persons were killed in a tornado late last night near Miami. Property damage was reported to be heavy.

CHALONER IS AGAIN IN THE LIMELIGHT

JOHN ARMSTRONG CHALONER

NEW YORK.—John Armstrong Chaloner, phrase maker extraordinary and author of "Who's Loney Now?" has written a play with which he intends to fight the lunacy laws of various states. There the author is a sane man under the state law, while New York courts have adjudged him insane.

MISSING DOCTOR HAS BEEN AT NORTH JUDSON

Dr. Edward P. Rowell, Jr., of Stamford, Conn., Was Working in Gravel Pit.

STAMFORD, Conn., July 2.—Dr. Edward P. Rowell, Jr., who disappeared on May 24 last, has been found in North Judson, Ind., and started Thursday for home with his cousin, Dr. E. Everett Rowell, who went to Indiana in response to a telegram received Saturday.

A letter received Thursday from Dr. Everett said that Dr. Rowell, Jr., was suffering from mental lapse. He had been working in a gravel pit. He did not know his own identity. A paper found on him bore the name and address of his cousin, George P. Rowland.

Young Dr. Rowell's domestic affairs were in order and he had no financial troubles at the time he vanished, but he was highly nervous from overwork. Private detectives searched vainly for him.
